Einstein, Albert
Unpublished opening lecture for the course on the theory of relativity in Argentina, 1925.

In this lecture Einstein discusses some of his observationals on the attenant to achieve a systematic unity of knowledge. He considers how one formulates fundamental laws in physics and then discusses how these laws can be revuted and also how they can never be definitely shown to be correct.

Reviewer: Fiacre O’Cairbre (Maynooth)

MSC:
01A60 History of mathematics in the 20th century
00A79 Physics

Keywords:
Einstein; Physics; Fundamental laws

Full Text: DOI